-VOLUME 9 NO. 19 FRIDAY, JANUARY 29, 1993-

Authorities are still searching for an elderly Cleveland woman who wandered away from her home on Wednesday. The Sheriffs Department says family and volunteers have been looking for Beatrice Wells, 84 years old, since Wednesday at 10:30, after leaving for her morning walk. She suffers from alzheimers disease, and probably does not know where she is at. Mrs. Wells was last seen wearing a purple sweat suit. She is described as an elderly black female, 5 foot 2 inches tall, 140 pounds, and walks with a limp. If you have seen this woman contact the Sheriffs Dept.

Hunter Industrial Facilities has filed a petition for re-hearing in front of the Texas Water Commission. The request was filed on Tuesday, and is the first step the company will take in an appeals process, to reverse the Water Commissioners denial of their permit. If the TWC says no to the request then HIFI could appeal to a State Court. If another hearing is granted, then a second hearing would be held, concentrating on the points that the TWC used to deny HIFI on January 6.

-VOLUME 9 NO. 18 THURSDAY, JANUARY 28, 1993-

Texas Commerce Bank Corporation purchased five of the New First City Bridge Banks yesterday, including Beaumont, of which Liberty is a branch. In total 20 First City institutions were sold by the FDIC, to 12 different corporations. Texas Commerce was the big winner, purchasing 73% of the bank corporations assets. TCB officials say they have no plans to close any banks in the area. The Liberty branch will stay open, and their name will change to Texas Commerce-Liberty in February, after the deal is finalized. None of the services at the local institutions will change, according to officials. The announcement came yesterday.

-VOLUME 9 NO. 17 WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 27, 1993-

Even though it has been finished, for many months, the new Liberty County Jail is still not open, and the work to put it in compliance, will not be done for another three to six weeks. Sheriff O.J. Stewart says after new air circulation fans are installed into the facility, the State Jail Commission will come and inspect the jail again. The prison, which has become somewhat un-affectionately referred to as the "Taj Majail", remains an empty structure, and is still not occupied by inmates.

The Sheriffs Department continues to look for an escaped prisoner, who ran from officers on Monday morning. Samuel Millican, 31, remains at large, but investigators are looking for him at the homes of his family members, and friends. Sheriff O.J. Stewart said the man had jumped bail, before his burglary and assault conviction in September. He was found in Florida, last year. Millican's whereabouts are unknown at this time.

It was three months ago today, that the Liberty County 911 system first went into operation. Since that time, 911 has proven to be a life saver, making it easier for people to call for help, by dialing only three digits, rather than the regular number for police, fire, or E.M.S. assistance. Charles Kaemmerling, Chairman of the 911 Committee says work is now underway to enhance the system. To make that happen, the Committee plans to map and address each home in the rural part of Liberty County.

-VOLUME 9 NO. 16 TUESDAY, JANUARY 26, 1993-

An escaped prisoner remains at large, after fleeing from the Liberty County Courthouse yesterday. Samuel Millican, 31, of New Caney, was last seen running north, after he sneaked out of the "law library", located on the first floor of the Courthouse. Sheriff O.J. Stewart said the man was serving a 25 year prison term for an aggravated assault conviction. Apparently, Millican slipped out of the library, after the transport officer, assigned to watch the prisoners, went to check on the four inside. Stewart feels the escapee fled when that officer's back was turned. Samuel Millican, was last seen wearing a white T-shirt, with his orange prison jumpsuit, tied around his waist. He is a white male, 5'5" tall, with at least two tattoos. 140 pounds, with brown hair, and blue eyes.

A man suspected in a June burglary and attempted sexual assault has been returned to Liberty County, and found to be fit to stand trial. Daniel Segora, 39, was arrested by the Dayton Police, for trying to molest a child in her home, on June 5. He was ordered to the Vernon State Hospital, until he could go to trial. The man, described as a transient, will be arraigned on February 2, the case could go to court by March. He was indicted for burglary with intent to commit indecency with a child.

****

Chairman of the Texas Department of Transportation Commission, David Bernson, addressed the Commissioners Court Monday. Bernson said that Highway 90 is one of his priorities, and hopes that it can be widened soon. He said that road is a necessary evacuation route during disasters, and needs to be improved.

-VOLUME 9 NO. 15 MONDAY, JANUARY 25, 1993-

The disaster drill held over the weekend in Liberty was met with a good response, as almost 200 people from Liberty, Dayton, and County emergency response teams participated. The mock disaster was centered around a staged chemical spill near the new County Jail. Officials from the State Department of Public Safety Emergency Management office critiqued the drill afterwards. Those non-participants had to responsibility to evaluate, and tell what was right, or wrong. DPS Emergency Coordinators Clay Kennelly, and Comet Russell, were both highly complimentary of the plan, and the handling of the mock disaster.

-VOLUME 9 NO. 14 FRIDAY, JANUARY 22, 1993-

Former President of First City Bank in Liberty, Peter Borling, III, has pled guilty to Federal bank fraud charges, according to the U.S. Attorneys Office. He is now facing up to 30 years in prison and a $1 million fine, for the fraud that was said to have occured over a two year period. Borling was accused by Federal Investigators of creating 21 fictitious loans at the institution, between December 1990, and April 1992. He left the bank this past summer. The U.S. Attorneys Office in Beaumont said the man took over $160,000 in the scheme, by falsifying customer loans. None of those loan holders knew anything about the fraudulent action. Investigators say this was apparently an isolated incident.

Hunter Environmental, based in Connecticut, has been sued by two stock holders, claiming infringements in the Securities and Exchange Act. The class action follows the collapse of HESI stock, after the Water Commission denial of their permit. HESI is the parent company of HIFI, in Dayton. As reported earlier, four Hunter insiders filed to sell their stock before it's value fell by over 80%. The company says the National Association of Securities Dealers is conducting a routine investigation.

-VOLUME 9 NO. 13 THURSDAY, JANUARY 21, 1993-

The rain from this past week, has caused the Trinity River to rise a little, but the water is not expected to last. Officials at the Lake Livingston Dam say the heavy storms caused a rise in the lake level, but it is not expected to cause any great inconvenience. Livingston increased the releases a few times yesterday, but they feel they will not have to go much higher, said a TRA spokesman.

-VOLUME 9 NO. 12 WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 20, 1993-

The Liberty County Commissioners met in executive session on Monday, to find out, who, if anyone, is to blame that the new jail is still not open. Precinct 2 Commissioner Lee Groce said the meeting was with the jail architect, designers, and contractors. They are trying to see what should be, or should have been done, when the facility was being built, that would have avoided these problems. Groce feels if someone truly is at fault, they should be sued. He also says that if it was designed correctly, it would already be in compliance. The Court is now waiting until the designers, return with estimates on the expenses to bring it into approval.

Hunter Industrial Facilities is still planning to appeal the denial of their proposed toxic waste disposal unit. HIFI President Keith Price said in an interview yesterday, that they will try and show the Water Commissioners had no right to over rule the recommendation of the Hearing Examiners. Although it is rare, the Commissioners have voted against the Examiners Office in the past. HIFI plans to appeal soon. They were denied a permit two weeks ago today.

****

The Clean Air Act is back in the spot light, after Liberty and Chambers Counties were excluded from emission checks for the next year or so. County Tax Assessor Collector Mark McClelland says if we were included in those laws, the County could lose money earned from auto registrations. It could also endanger possible future industrial development.

-VOLUME 9 NO. 11 TUESDAY, JANUARY 19, 1993-

State Representative Zeb Zbranek says the Air Control Board has granted his request to remove Liberty and Chambers Counties from non-attainment, or air emission laws designed to lower automobile pollution. Zbranek argued the recommendation on Friday. The Board decided to take the two Counties off of the list of areas to be forced to submit to emission inspections on their personal cars. Those regulations will not apply to Liberty and Chambers Counties until 1996 or 97. Rules for Harris County begin in 1995.

-VOLUME 9 NO. 10 MONDAY, JANUARY 18, 1993-

The Sheriffs Department arrested 11 residents of Cleveland and Tarkington, during a drug raid on Wednesday. Sheriff O.J. Stewart said the arrests followed a five month long investigation. He said the warrants were served at 6 or so houses outside Cleveland and Tarkington. Arrested were, Kevin King, 29. Jimmy Simmons, Jr., 27. Robin Trevathan, 27. Greg Walker, 33. Larry Grant, 34, Lenita Walker, 37. James Ramsey, 36, and Kenneth Fregia, 33. The charges ranged from possession and delivery of cocaine, marijuana and methamphetamines.

Most index crimes are down for last year, according to the Sheriffs Department. There were three homicides in 1992, as opposed to the prior year at 5. Burglaries were down the most, at 325 last year. In 1991 there were 495 burglaries in Liberty County. 50 cars were stolen in the County last year.

The Dayton Independent School District is still looking to build a new High School, that would better accommodate their annual growth rate. Dayton is the fastest growing District in the County. Superintendant Will Moore says a $12 million or higher bond issue would have to be passed to pay for the new facility. That new school would be built on highway 321 if approved.

****

A 33 year old Rye man was convicted last week for sexually assaulting a child. William Ralph Casey, was sentenced to 80 years in prison for the charge, according to the District Attorneys office. He pled not-guilty to the charge last week, but the jury saw it differently and unanimously convicted him on the count. Casey had a prior conviction for a similar charge, said the D.A.

-VOLUME 9 NO. 9 FRIDAY, JANUARY 15, 1993-

Two different private prison companies are competing for a State contract to build a 500 bed facility near the Hightower Unit in Dayton. Group Management of Texas wants to build a new prison, and so does the Cornell Cox Group. This proposal is seperate from the already approved substance abuse facility awarded to Dayton by the State. Precinct 4 County Commissioner Bobby Payne said Group Management wants to construct four jails in the State, but are approaching several different cities. Cornell Cox wants to do the same. Both will have to be approved by the State before they can announce at which locations they will build. Commissioner Payne says the State could grant two new prisons to Dayton, but receiving only one is the most likely. The facilities could provide 350 jobs, during construction, and over 200 if approved by the State.

Speaking of jails....The Liberty County Commissioners will meet on Monday to discuss who is at blame, because the new County Jail is still not open. Judge Dempsie Henley said he doesn't want to sue, but does want to know what the problem is, and who should have corrected the situation. The County says they are losing $50,000 a month in anticipated revenue by not having the new jail open.

Over 100 former and current residents of Mont Belvieu lost a $220 million law suit against several big petro chemical plants in their town. Federal Judge David Hittner threw the case out on Monday, following a month of evidence presented by the plaintiffs attorney's. They were seeking damages stemming from among others, that they were not given fair market value for their property, when several companies there tried to buy the land. Connoco, Shell, Chevron, and other well known corporations in Mont Belvieu, were being sued. One company attorney was quoted as saying he was pleased, and that the owners were unable to prove that they had been damaged.

Arson is suspected in a blaze that damaged a portion of an abandoned warehouse seven miles from Dayton on 321. Dayton Fire Chief Earl Heider said some card board boxes that were stacked in one corner of the building caught fire, damaging two of the walls. Heider said the metallic building was an old produce supply house. The structure had been seized several years ago, and has not been used much since. The blaze broke out around 11:30 yesterday morning, the fire department is still investigating.

-VOLUME 9 NO. 4 THURSDAY, JANUARY 7, 1993-

WATER COMMISSION SAYS NO TO HIFI!

Texas Water Commissioners John Hall, Peggy Garner, and Pam Reed voted unanimously against the facility last night, stating that the company did not have adequate financial assurance, and there was no urgent public necessity for the toxic dump at this time. Members of the opposition were ecstatic at the ruling and continue to celebrate, even with the threat of an appeal looming in the near future. Hunter is hopeful that they could win by arguing in front of a State or Federal Court. Over 350 people attended the proceedings yesterday at the Austin Hyatt hotel. Around 34 people signed up to speak in opposition of HIFI, including State Representative-Elect, Zeb Zbranek. Only nine spoke in favor. The next step will be for an appeal to be filed, which was anticipated no matter which side won. That could stretch out the question of HIFI's fate for another six months to a year, but for right now, the answer on toxic waste and Hunter in Dayton is no.

A new exhibit featuring artifacts, pictures, and letters from legendary Texan Sam Houston will go on display today at the Sam Houston Regional Library in Liberty. The year long display will help mark the 200th birthday of Sam Houston which is celebrated state-wide in 1993. A reception will be held from 5:30 to 8 tonight, and the public is welcome. The Sam Center is located on F.M. 1011.

The Liberty Police have recovered the stolen computer that was taken from the Spirit of Sharing over the weekend. Officers recovered the equipment at a location in Liberty. No arrests have been made, and none of the money or keys that also were taken have been found. The S.O.S. was very happy to have their computer returned.

The Liberty County Jail is scheduled for a second inspection tomorrow to see if it meets State requirements. The jail flunked the first test in December. If it passes the inspection, inmates could be moved into the now empty jail by the weekend.

****

The City of Liberty Building Inspector's office has released their year end report, that shows the total number of house and business construction up over last year. The actual dollar amount for commercial permits is down however, to $2,235,000. Residential construction totaled over $794,000 in 1992.

-VOLUME 9 NO. 3 WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 6, 1993-

Today, the Texas Water Commission will make a final ruling on the HIFI permit application. The format for the hearing will begin with public comment at 10 this morning. After that, each major party to the case will present their arguments for and against the facility. Each will be given an hour and 15 minutes to do so, then the Commissioners will make their decision. The meeting is expected to last through tonight. At least two bus loads of Dayton area residents are planning to leave this morning to hear the ruling. The opposition is hoping for a denial, but are prepared to fight through an appeal.

-VOLUME 9 NO. 2 TUESDAY, JANUARY 5, 1993-

The Texas Water Commission has changed the location where they will consider the HIFI application. This they say will accommodate a larger anticipated crowd. The T.W.C. says the Commissioners will open their regular meeting at 9am tomorrow, at their normal location, then reconvene at 10am at the Austin Hyatt Regency Texas Ballroom to consider the Hunter case. The process is expected to last most of the day. Public comments will be welcome, but speakers will have to sign up beginning at 8am tomorrow at the hotel, according to the Commission. The office of Media Relations at the TWC says they want to give everyone a chance to speak if time will allow. The Water Commissioners are expected to rule on the permit sometime tomorrow. Directions to hotel: Take the 3rd-8th Street exit off I-35, turn toward downtown Austin. Turn left on Congress, and right on Barton Springs road.

A storm system produced at least one tornado yesterday, which was spotted near the Liberty High School. Witnesses saw the funnel cloud touch down by the baseball field, damaging the dugout and the auto mechanics shop at around 11:30 yesterday. No one was hurt, and that was the only funnel cloud we received any report on during the storm.

****

The Spirit of Sharing on Travis in Liberty was burglarized sometime this weekend. Stolen from the charitable organization was a $1500 computer, and around $150 in cash. SOS Director Ginger Mitchum said the sad thing about the break in, is that their computer is an invaluable tool in their daily work, and most of their records were stored inside.

-VOLUME 9 NO. 1 MONDAY, JANUARY 4, 1993-

After several years, the final decision on the controversial Hunter toxic waste disposal facility will be announced this week. The Texas Water Commission will rule on Wednesday whether or not they will issue a permit to HIFI. Groups opposing the corporation held a candle light prayer vigil last week for a last public expression of their mistrust of the facility. Hunter first proposed to store toxic waste in huge underground salt domes near Dayton in 1989. Regardless of the decision, a lengthy appeals process is expected to follow. The final ruling will come on Wednesday.
